Liberated from egg and sugar rations but still firmly in the grips of cheese and meat rationing British cooks of 1953 were keen to make the most of their new found culinary freedom. The result? Devilled eggs of course! These curried canapés were a real favourite for serving up as part of a party spread. 1954: Burgers and milkshakes. 1954 saw the end of rationing altogether and the opening of ...

I grew up helping my dad make his “famous” chili for special occasions like Christmas Eve and New Year’s Eve. If there was a holiday party going down you can be sure his chili was the main event (often paired with his “famous” Caesar salad and garlic bread - his 3 staple recipes that we ate time and time again).

"Have some more, Charlie?" "No. Better not finish it." "She wants us to finish it. She said so. Be doing her a favor." "Okay then. Give me some more." "That's the hell of a big club the gut must've used to hit poor Patrick," one of them was saying. "The doc says his skull was smashed all to pieces just like from a sledgehammer." "That's why it ought to be easy to find." "Exactly what I say ...

The beauty of Charlie is that he will reside in your fridge for weeks, then when you need him, he’s always ready to go. Just give him a good shake, pour him in your stir fry and add water. He's already got cornstarch/cornflour in him so he turns into a glorious thick sauce that coats your stir fry beautifully.

Charlie says. February 12, 2016 at 5:40 pm. Just loved this pizza! It was blizzardy tonight so we bought a dough ball from our local super market, and being extra lazy we used the GO Veggie! parmesan we had in the fridge. Otherwise everything was to spec. and adding the extra oregano and parm. afterwards finished it off nicely. It was just amazing. Next time we'll try Trader Joe's garlic ...
